Warmongering USA destroying nations for decades

Dr. Martin Luther King said in 1967 in the Riverside church:

“The largest supplier of violence in the world was my own country.” The list of willfully attacked countries with corresponding consequences is quite long: Korea and Vietnam, especially devastating: many Vietnamese children in hospitals who are still suffering the consequences of the poison gas attacks; Nicaragua is impoverished; Iraq and Libya are vandalized. In Grenada, a small vacation island, many were killed, without any reason. Rwanda and Panama: The capital city of Panama was destroyed and also mass graves have been found.

Afghanistan and Sudan: Near the capitol of Sudan a pharmaceutical factory was destroyed out of pure evil desire. It was an important and favorable source for medications for the economically poor sub-Saharan Africa. Others countries may eventually follow, if the global society does not withdraw their support of the US-warmongers.
